

About the Author

Larry Hodges is a coach at the Maryland Table Tennis Center (MDTTC), where he used to coach full-time. He is certified as a national coach, the highest level of coaching certification in table tennis. From 1991 to 1995, he chaired the USATT Coaching Committee. In 2002, he was named USATT Development Coach of the Year by the U.S. Olympic Committee. He has worked with many of the best players in the country, both at the MDTTC and as a manager and coach at the Olympic Training Center from 1985 to 1989. For many years, he coached the U.S. National Junior Team at major tournaments in North America and the world. He has taught table tennis classes in colleges, schools, and clubs all over the United States. He was inducted into the USATT Hall of Fame in 2003.

Larry is the editor of USA Table Tennis Magazine, the national magazine for table tennis. He is also Webmaster for USATT (www.usatt.org) and is the director and founder of the USATT League, a nationwide table tennis league. He is author of the book Instructor's Guide to Table Tennis and more than 900 published articles on table tennis in 41 different publications since 1978. Larry has been playing serious table tennis since 1976. He has been ranked among the top 30 players in the U.S. and has won state championships in Maryland, Colorado, and North Carolina. He was U.S. Collegiate Doubles and Team Champion for the University of Maryland, where he received a bachelor's degree in math and a master's degree in journalism. When he's not coaching, playing, or writing about table tennis, Larry enjoys reading and writing science fiction and fantasy (he's a member of SFWA), playing tennis, and tutoring kids in math and English.
